

[Download] File size: 21.Mb

Green Kitchen Travels: Healthy vegetarian food inspired by our adventures

*Par David Frenkiel, Luise Vindahl
DOC | *audiobook | ebooks | Download
PDF | ePub*

Dtails sur le produit Rang parmi les ventes : #195942 dans eBooksPubli le: 2014-09-15Sorti le: 2014-09-15Format: Ebook Kindle

[Download] Green Kitchen Travels: Healthy vegetarian food inspired by our adventures

Par David Frenkiel, Luise Vindahl : Green Kitchen Travels: Healthy vegetarian food inspired by our adventures before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Green Kitchen Travels: Healthy vegetarian food inspired by our adventures:

Download

Read Online

Description :

Prsentation de l'diteurDelicious, nutritious vegetarian and vegan recipes inspired by flavours from around the world, by the bestselling authors behind the Green Kitchen Stories blog. David, Luise and their daughter Elsa are a family who love to travel. Hungry to see and taste more of the world, they had embarked on an around-the-world trip by the time Elsa was just seven months old. Take your own inspiration from their travels: start the day with indulgent almond pumpkin waffles from San Francisco, tuck into a raw beansprout pad thai from Thailand for lunch, and a Sri Lankan vegetable curry for supper. With easy to find ingredients and simple instructions, these recipes are sure to be a success. With stunning photography and food styling, as well as personal anecdotes and images from the authors travels, Green Kitchen Travels shares modern and inspiring vegetarian, vegan and gluten-free recipes.

Revue de presse If you haven't heard about Green Kitchen Stories yet, don't blame us. We've been obsessing over this couple and their Nordic way of life for ever. Their latest cookbook, Green Kitchen Travels, inspired by what else? their family travels. Most notably, their time spent up and down the coast of California and on to the culinary epicenter that is New York City. The Chalkboard Mag a visually stunning book filled with 90 recipes that are accessible to the home cook based on their travels (all except two are gluten-free). Taking inspiration from traditional recipes, with some slight adjustments, they're made healthier for everyday meals. The recipes look absolutely decadent (each and every recipe has an accompanying photo), the photos are just as much a part of this book as are the recipes. They bring you in as if you were with them at the wonderful hole-in-the-wall restaurant somewhere in the Born district of Barcelona or having a conversation on an airplane about a recipe. Green Kitchen Travels is an inspiring book that is equal parts cookbook, travel journal and photo album. I'm thrilled it's part of our home collection and can't wait to put some of these recipes to the test with my own kids.

Traveling Mom.com "...Green Kitchen Travels, the newest book from Green Kitchen Stories bloggers David Frenkel and Luise Vindahl is one of the pretty--and pretty delicious--ones. Frenkel and Vindahl are intrepid travelers and curious eaters, and their new book shares recipes and ideas they gathered from their feast around the world." Epicurious Frenkel and Vindahl are the couple behind dreamboat Scandi food blog Green Kitchen Stories. Who would like it? New parents and healthy veggies alike, and anyone for whom the first meal is the best one of the day: there are very few dishes here that wouldn't be at home on a brunch buffet. This is light and energizing fare, often unintentionally vegan and all the more inspiring for it. There's a reason Green Kitchen Stories is one of the most avidly read blogs out there: their passion for food is palpable, and an instant invitation to tuck in. The Guardian Required Reading Gardenista Just looking at the cover of Green Kitchen Travels stirred up inspiration on the visceral level for me. There are beautiful photographs of food, yes, but also captures of the worldly places that inspired each dish. This one accomplishes both handily. There's nothing about it that I don't love. Addictive is the only adjective you need to know, but here are some others: crunchy, salty, sweet, tender, and fresh. Lots of things to turn the wheels no matter what level you're at with whole food + vegetarian adventures. You can buy it (and you should seriously). The First Mess The new vegetarian cookbook from blogging power couple, Green Kitchen Travels will convert even the most meat loving of carnivores. Just like their blog (and their first cookbook), this book features beautifully-styled food photography, stunning shots of their travels and a generous helping of Scandi-cool. With a focus on natural, organic ingredients and a large selection of vegan and gluten free recipes, this inspiring book shows you that creating healthy vegetarian food can be both exciting and enjoyable. Get the Gloss There wasn't a picture, a recipe, a story that I didn't fall in love with. Let's just say that I have a huge crush on this book. One of the reasons I connected so strongly to their book has to do with the way David and Louise eat...each creation isn't just flavorful, but, overall, pretty healthy as well. If a recipe isn't vegetarian or vegan, it's gluten-free. Sometimes both. A Thought for Food.net I've been anticipating their second cookbook, Green Kitchen Travels, with much enthusiasm after admiring their work for many years. The book is filled with vibrant vegetarian and vegan dishes, many of which I was tempted to make right away. What makes it special is that every recipe is inspired by the authors travels around the world, often based on authentic dishes with a fresh, veggie-based twist. The creative and easy-going GKS style is evident on every page.

Golubkitchen.com Presentation de l'auteur Delicious, nutritious vegetarian and vegan recipes inspired by flavours from around the world, by the bestselling authors behind the Green Kitchen Stories blog. David, Luise and their daughter Elsa are a family who love to travel. Hungry to see and taste more of the world, they had embarked on an around-the-world trip by the time Elsa was just seven months old. Take your own inspiration from their travels: start the day with indulgent almond pumpkin waffles from San Francisco, tuck into a raw bean sprout pad thai from Thailand for lunch, and a Sri Lankan vegetable curry for supper. With easy to find ingredients and simple instructions, these recipes are sure to be a success. With stunning photography and food styling, as well as personal anecdotes and images from the authors travels, Green Kitchen Travels shares modern and inspiring vegetarian, vegan and gluten-free recipes.